THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON
February 1, 1973

Dear Watt:

It is a special pleasure to join your many friends and admirers who have gathered to pay you this richly deserved tribute. Few men in public life can match the dedication and distinction you brought to the service of your state and nation for more than forty years.

From the very beginning of your career in the early 30's to the day you retired after a quarter century in the United States Congress, your career has been one of selfless devotion to the cause of good government and tireless hard work on behalf of all citizens. While there may have been issues on which we differed, when it came to the issue of the well-being of the American people, you never failed to put principle above partisanship. I am particularly grateful for your steadfast support during the last four years which helped us to achieve the peace with honor we sought in Vietnam.

With my warmest congratulations on this occasion and very best wishes for the years ahead,

Sincerely,

Richard Nixon

Program Provides 54 Hours Of Volunteer Work Per Week

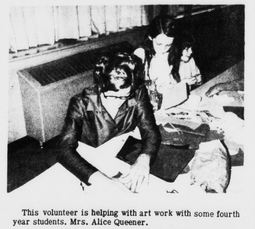
The volunteer program at Appomattox Primary School is proving to be of great value to everyone concerned.

Today there is an increasing emphasis on individualized instruction. . . fitting the curriculum to the child. But time and money often work against a teacher who wants to employ new methods and materials, who wants to give each child personal guidance.

When these volunteers assist teachers with growing paper work, make instructional materials, or conduct a science experiment, they give them more time for planning activities, for trying new teaching strategies, and for working directly with children.

The teachers welcome the opportunity to have volunteer workers. We have to remember that parent involvement is voluntary for the teacher also. If they did not feel that the volunteer was a valuable asset to the instructional program, they would not be asking for their help. Participation in the parent-involvement program gives the volunteer a chance to make a significant contribution to their child, their school and their community.

The schools welcome patrons or interested citizens to stop by the school and inquire about the voluntary program.



This volunteer is helping with art work with some fourth year students, Mrs. Alice Queener.

This volunteer is helping a student with some individual work, Mrs. Carole Martin.

The new store will offer teaching studios for piano, organ and guitar students; sheet music will be available; accessories; band instruments; guitars, pianos and organs will be sold at the new store, too. SAFE DRIVING

Richmond Wearing sunglasses and night driving can be a deadly combination.

The use of colored, tinted, reflected or polarizing glasses and face shields reduces the amount of light reaching the eyes and lessens the contrasts between objects and background, according to John T. Hanna, director, Highway Safety Division of Virginia.

Under conditions of bright daylight, use of such visual aids will reduce glare and in most cases, contribute to traffic safety through clearer vision and lessening of eye fatigue.

"However," Hanna continued, "at night the amount of light is less, making seeing more difficult and driving more dangerous even under the best conditions. Even colored contact lenses are not adv for night driving."

"Approximately 90 of all driving reactions d cisions are based on vis take advantage of all av visibility," the safety d advised, citing basic tip driving at night.

MISS BYRNE'S 4-HPAMPLIN ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

The president Cynthia Roach called the meeting to order. The recreation leaders led us with two songs, He's Got the Whole World in His Hands and Chiapanecas, and a game called mean doggy. Then the presi- dent told the secretary to read the minutes of the last meeting.

Mr. Sweet gave certificates to the people who gave speeches. He told us we could improve our speeches and do them again. Mr. Sweet said that on March 31, 1973 there was going to be a county demonstration contest. He finished talking about that and showed us a film on demonstrations.

The film was about a dog that wanted to join a demonstration contest. After we look at the film Mr. Sweet talked even more about demonstrations and what we could do to help explain our demonstration. Then he gave our class a paper that had ideas for our demonstration.

He talked about posters -- how we could make our letters on our posters.

The meeting was then adjourned.
